

Ad closed by Google

How St Barth's Top Hotel Is Helping to Save Sea Turtles

Recommend Share 43 people recommend this. Be the first of your friends.

Print

By Caribbean Journal Staff

Tweet

Le Barthelemy Hotel and Spa, the leading hotel in the island of St Barth, has launched a new partnership aimed at saving endangered sea turtles.

The new partnership with St Barth's Environmental Territorial Agency will see a portion of every Le Barthelemy booking donated to ATE to help maintain the sea turtles' local nursery.

Indeed, over 100 sea turtles return to the shores of St Barth's Grand Culinary de Sac each April and May to lay their eggs.

It's part of a broader, wide-ranging sustainability program at the hotel, which ranges from solar panels and local sourcing to the installation of a desalination station.

"Through tracking and caring for the ocean wildlife, Le Barthelemy is continuing their commitment to preserving the natural landscape of the island of St. Barts and the community," the hotel said in a statement to Caribbean Journal.

For more, visit Le Barthelemy.

Ad closed by Google

TRENDING STORIES

- A Fourth International Airport in Jamaica?
- The Best Kicks in St Thomas, USVI
- The Caribbean's Newest Reggae Hit Is a Love Letter to Antigua
- Marriott Is Opening an Adults-Only All-Inclusive in the Dominican Republic
- Caribbean Photo of the Week: Sunset at Cupecoy, St Maarten
- New Chairman of Turks and Caicos Tourist Board
- The Bahamas' Atlantis Paradise Island Has a New "Bespoke Concierge"
- Frontier Kicks Off New Miami-Jamaica Flights

See More

Sign Up For Caribbean Journal's FREE Daily Newsletter

email address

Subscribe

Ad closed by Google

Ad closed by Google